

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION.

VOL. XVI.

ATLANTA, GA., FRIDAY MORNING FEBRUARY 16, 1894.

PRICE FIVE CENTS.

LOOKS LIKE DEFEAT.

Peckham's Confirmation Is More Doubtful Than Ever.

ALL DAY LONG THE BATTLE RAGED.

At Night the Opposing Forces Rested on Their Arms.

SENATORS NOT THROUGH SPEAKING

Mr. Vilas Opens the Fray Today—Mr. Hill Has Not Spoken—He Is Confident of Beating the Mugwump.

Washington, February 15.—(Special)—The senate devoted four hours this afternoon to the consideration of the Peckham nomination. The vote was, however, postponed until tomorrow. A dozen or more senators desired to speak and as each one of them had a long and full speech to deliver, it was impossible for all of them to get in before 6 o'clock. Just at 6 o'clock Senator Vilas took the floor to speak in favor of Peckham's confirmation. As he was to make quite a long speech the senate adjourned and he will be heard tomorrow. The debate was not a bitter one. The speeches were also entirely on the ability of Mr. Peckham and his fitness for a place on the supreme bench. Senator Hill did not speak today. He, however, spent the entire day doing missionary work against Peckham. His figures on the vote which is to be taken tomorrow, show that Peckham will be defeated by from nine to eleven majority. The administration people are not confident, but they are hopeful.

Tonight it seems almost certain that Peckham will be defeated. Certainly he will be unless the administration does some remarkably good missionary work early tomorrow morning.

Took an Early Start.

It was at an unusually early hour for United States senators that the advocates and opponents of the confirmation of Wheeler H. Peckham, nominated to be associate justice of the United States supreme court, were astir this morning. Mr. Hill was among the first to reach the senate wing of the building. Senators Vilas and Lindsay were not far behind him, and then began the preliminary struggle to present a solid front for the contest, which had been agreed upon for this afternoon. Mr. Hill did some active work and was in conference with senators in committee rooms, corridors and cloak rooms. The friends of the administration were not less energetic, but lacked the helping hand of republicans, such as had declared their intention of supporting the nominee, contenting themselves with that, and making no effort to make proselytes among their colleagues.

Eleven in Doubt.

The cloak room of the senate filled up at an earlier hour than usual, and the tariff gave way in the cloak room talk to gossip about the outcome of the day's battle. Both sides still professed confidence, but there were evidences of anxiety on the part of the opposing leaders.

Last night a careful canvass was made of the senate by a leading senator and the vote as compiled by him, shows 43 votes against Peckham, 31 votes for him, and 11 doubtful.

If this list be accurate, the nominee would be defeated, even if all the doubtful men voted for confirmation.

Of course, in such a poll, account is taken of the absentees who are paired. Those marked doubtful in this list are: Allison, Hale, Hoar, Kyle, Lodge, McMillan, McLaughlin, Morrill, Squire, Stockbridge and Washburn.

Republicans Split on Peckham. According to the same poll, Dixon and Sherman are placed in the affirmative, but it is claimed that Dixon will not vote to confirm. Allison voted against Hornibrook, and it is expected that he will vote the same way. Dolph, who has been counted as being opposed to Peckham, is now said, will vote for him, but this is offset by the fact that Hoar has come out against the nominee and declared his intention of voting to reject. In this way also Lodge and, possibly, Morrill, will be transferred from the doubtful column to those in active opposition. As the hour for the executive session approached, the anti-administration men became more aggressive.

H. Pugh Says He Is Unfit.

When the doors of the senate were closed Mr. Pugh at 6:20 called up the nomination and proceeded to address the senate.

He laid before the senate the matter contained in the letters that had been sent to the committee and made an argument against the fitness of Peckham for the high place to which he had been appointed, calling the special attention of the senate to what he termed the prejudiced character of the mind of the nominee.

Mr. Pugh's speech was addressed mainly to the legal qualifications of Peckham which, he said, with much positiveness, were entirely inconsistent with the duties of a jurist. The nominee was, he said, more biased and prejudiced special pleader than the impartial judge capable of looking on both sides of a legal question.

He also opposed him for his attitude in certain elections, when Mr. Pugh said Peckham had proved by his actions that he was not a good democrat. Mr. Pugh spoke for an hour and a half, making a temperate, but as senators pronounce it, a strong speech.

Three Blasts for Peckham.

He was followed briefly by Mr. Harris, of Tennessee, in support of confirmation. At 4:45 o'clock Mr. Lindsay, of Kentucky, a member of the judiciary committee, replied to some of the arguments of Mr. Pugh and made an earnest speech in behalf of the nominee.

Mr. Lindsay spoke for upwards of an hour, and at 5:30 o'clock was followed by Mr. McPherson, of New Jersey, in favor of confirmation.

At 5:50 o'clock Mr. Vilas got the floor, prepared for a lengthy speech, but it came evinced that the result could be reached. By common consent an adjournment was taken until tomorrow, when the discussion will be renewed.

Senators and Woman's Suffrage. During the consideration of the Oklahoma senatorial bill in the senate today Senator Peffer proposed an amendment allowing women to vote in the elections to locate townships and as struck at that time there were fifteen votes recorded in the senate in favor of woman's suffrage. They were all, however, from the republican party, excepting Senators Kyle and Peffer.

BOATNER HAS A PLAN.

He Has a Scheme for Reviving the Civil Service Law.

COLONEL OATES OPENS HIS RACE.

Before This Month Is Out He Will Start His Campaign.

JUDGE GRESHAM GIVES UP A PENSION.

He Was Wounded While Fighting Around Atlanta—Washington Women Play the Markets and Some Have Luck.

Washington, February 15.—(Special)—Mr. Boatner, of Louisville, has a plan to revive the civil service system which he will propose to congress very soon.

Mr. Boatner seeks to do away with the life tenure created by the present civil service law and to limit governmental service to two terms of six years each, the second term being allowed only after competitive examination.

In explaining his proposed measure, Mr. Boatner said today:

"I am in favor of a good civil service system, but the present law, after a full trial, has proved ineffective and unjust. It builds up an office-holding class and results in giving life tenures to those in offices. A visit to the department will show women drawing from $1,200 to $1,800 per year from the government, while at the same time other women of equal intelligence are working in private offices at $10 a week. I have no objection to the women earning $1,200 to $1,800, but I want the outside woman to have an opportunity or earning this amount."

"At the end of the proposed time the place held by an employee would be open to competitive examination before the department civil service board. The employee who had served for six years in the place could compete with others, and his or her experience might give an advantage in securing a reappointment for six years. Yet another proposal, established by examination, would be the only way for continuing the term to twelve years. At the end of that time the service would terminate with further opportunity for examination or continuance in government employ."

"In this way life tenures in the government will be broken up, and the civil service laws would be made to harmonize with the needs of the various branches of the public service."

Colonel Oates's Campaign.

Colonel Oates, of Alabama, told the today that he had started his campaign for governor of Alabama at Athens. Limestone county, on February 26th. He expects to speak every day for a month or two, and to make the campaign lively.

Done at Nine.

The day has been made public that Secretary of State Gresham has his name stricken from the pension rolls about one year ago, just before he became a member of the cabinet. This fact has never been generally known until now.

Colonel Oates, of Alabama, told the today that he had been made public that the secretary of the treasury had already coined $27,000,000 of silver bullion and had made a seigniorage profit of $6,000,000, which had been coined. Let him continue to coin seigniorage from time to time, he said, but do not set an imaginary portion of bullion and designate it as seigniorage. He believed that the secretary of the treasury could satisfactorily handle the financial question at this time. He believed that his position and discretion and have the matter to his judgment without the enactment of mandatory instructions. If a bill was now passed which required the secretary of the treasury to issue a coin of the same size and of the same weight as the gold would walk out of the treasury at an unprecedented rate and create financial trouble which could not be estimated.

Why Not?

Mr. Simpson referred to the remarks made by Mr. Walker yesterday in which he said that the entire financial problem should be left to the banks to solve. He read Mr. Walker's biography to show that he was a shoemaker, and said if a shoemaker could make a profit, then he could make a profit. He said that money is a currency which would be a means of money-making for themselves, while the farmer and laboring people needed a currency which would be the most useful to them and attend to the wants of the people.

They Get Private Tips.

Washington is getting to be decidedly advanced city. Or rather, I might say, that a portion of its female population are becoming very advanced. They are to be found in the stock and bond broken offices and the buckethouses, is a beautifully fitted up office or buckethouse where only females are allowed to trade. It has become very popular and a crowd of representatives of the various stock and bond houses are to be found watching the quotations and playing the stock market. One young miss is said to have taken down a thousand dollars out of a deal in sugar the other day.

A new morning day is to be known as The Times. It is to be located in Washington some time next month.

Mr. Watson's Contest.

Congressman Lawson, of the committee on elections, received a letter some time ago from Hon. Thomas E. Watson, in which the latter inquires when he would have a hearing in his case for the seat of Major Black.

To this Mr. Lawson replied to Mr. Watson as follows:

"I am unable to furnish you with definite information as to the time when the committee on elections will have your case. You can, however, determine the time preceding your case, one which has been argued and submitted to the committee, which have not been reached. It is probable that your case will not be reached before the middle of March. In your case, however, there is a substantial difference between the middle of March when you will prefer the case taken up I will try Major Black and see if he will accept your case. I will then see if you will accept it.

Customs service, however, continue to demand the aggregate loss for the year to date being $1,600,000 for the month of January, and $1,200,000 for the month of February.

On Thursday evening, Mr. Davis and Mrs. Davis, a number of other persons, including some of the hands with, perhaps, the handsomest dinner given in Washington this season, among those present were Speaker and Mrs. Crisp, Secretary Smith, Senator White, Senator and Mrs. G. F. Peffer, the French ambassador and a score or other guests.

AGNES WAS MISSING

And Last Night She Was Found Living as the Wife of an Uncle.

SEE JUST SIXTEEN--HE FORTY-EIGHT.

Sensational Sequel to the Disappearance of Pretty Miss King.

SHE LEFT HOME ON FEBRUARY 7TH.

The Detectives Have Been Looking for Her a Week--Her Uncle and Kidnapper Behind the Bars--Her Story.

The strange disappearance of pretty Agnes King, of 21 Formwalt street, which occurred on the morning of February 7th, and which has been kept a profound secret from all save the detectives, had a most sensational sequel last night.

The discovery of the young girl's whereabouts disclosed one of the most startling stories of the year. A friend, a family's grief and misfortune, a husband's desertion, a young girl's ruin and a man's brazen effrontry, that the annals of the local detectives have shown in years.

The young girl was found at a fashionable boarding house in this city, living as the wife of an uncle, her husband, and who is the husband of her aunt. The tearful story of her ruin moved the officers to deep indignation, and caused Chief Connolly to declare that he would take the prosecution of the man who had wronged her into his own hands and see to it that he did not get away with it.

A. G. Wilson, formerly a locomotive engineer, a man forty-eight years old, is under arrest for kidnapping the young girl. His wife, the sister of the young girl's mother, is deeply heartbroken and deserted at her home, 121 Garnett street. The father of the young girl, and her broken-hearted mother, are prostrated with grief over last night's disclosures.

Agnes King is sixteen years old and remarkably beautiful. She is sixteen, but tall for her age. Her hair is dark-brown and her features are fair and beautiful. She is bright, too, and as gay as any young woman to the officers last night, is not lacking in spirit. She is the oldest child of Mr. J. W. King, of 21 Formwalt street, who is the southern agent of the Portland Screen Company, with offices in the old carpet warehouse on Peachtree street.

Mr. King is about fifty years of age and is proud of his pretty daughter. So great was his pride in her that the revelation last night came to him with stunning effect and he was broken with grief.

DIED AT THE HOSPITAL.

Miss Etta Smith Died There Yesterday Afternoon.

Miss Etta Smith, the lady who created a sensation about two months ago by calling at police headquarters and exposing her self as the lover of the King of Kings, the boxer, a noted boxer, died at the Miss hospital yesterday afternoon.

Her death was the result of various physical complications which puzzled the physicians. She had been entirely cured of the King's habit, Dr. Sykes, the physician who took care of the King since he came under his control. Soon after being pronounced well she was taken ill and was sent to the hospital.

She lingered there until yesterday afternoon when she died. The case was a puzzling one that the attending physicians determined would bring out the full strength of the Knights of Pythias.

deeply grieved last night when they learned the truth.

In talk with her father held in Chief Connolly's office last night, the young girl expressed herself as being deeply penitent for what had occurred and showed a willingness to go home and make amends for her girlish error. On the arm of her father she left police headquarters, tears streaming down her eyes.

A charge of kidnapping was entered on the docket against Wilson. Mr. King says he will prosecute him to the bitter end. "But," said he, "I had found him last night, and his prosecution would not have been necessary."

THE KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

The Grand Anniversary Will Take Place Next Monday Evening.

The Knights of Pythias of Atlanta will be the guests of the Atlanta Lodge, No. 20, of that order next Monday night at the hall of the Atlanta Lodge, corner Alabama and Forsyth streets.

It will be the thirtieth anniversary of the order of Pythians all over the world and on that evening every Pythian hall in the country will be thrown open and the day will be observed generally. In Atlanta, where there are four lodges of Pythians, the Atlanta Lodge will keep open from 8 o'clock in the evening until 10:30. The Pythian hall on the corner of Alabama and Forsyth streets will be the scene of pleasure and pleasure.

The Atlanta Lodge, which is one of the oldest in the city, is one of the largest and most important in the importance of the occasion. The officers have made arrangements for one of the most enjoyable evenings imaginable to which not only the Pythians but all the Pythians in the world are invited.

Before the shadows of the evening throw themselves over Atlanta the hall will be open to all who will be illuminated and the banners of welcome will be shining from the windows. And then those who come will find a musical treat in store for them. In the musical event the voices of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pearson, Mrs. Dove, Miss Jenny Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Price will be heard, while Professor Barritt and Mr. Charles Price will be on hand to lend their enchanting aid to the evening.

Thirty years ago the Knights of Pythias was organized and we believe it is the oldest in the country. The founder of the order was Julius Rathbone and the men who sat around him now have a following of over 450,000 members, who are joined in nearly six thousand subordinate lodges.

The Knights of Pythias has more than a thousand divisions with something like 50,000 uniformed men who are ready at the call to obey the commands of the government. It is the only secret order in the country that is subject to the call of the government if a nation is needed and that call would bring out the full strength of the Knights of Pythias.

MISS ETTA SMITH DIED THERE YESTERDAY.

At the last meeting of the board of directors, an order was passed for the improvement of the grounds in front of the building.

Miss Wallace has given her personal attention to the matter and under her careful supervision the grounds have already commenced to assume a most inviting aspect.

By the 1st of April, as soon as the soil has been assimilated by the spring weather, the yard will begin to put forth all of its growth, and the grounds will be in a thousand times more beautiful than at present.

About Mr. Peckham.

The refusal of the senate to confirm the nomination of Mr. Wheeler H. Peckham to the supreme bench would add another to the frequent rebukes of the democratic senate to the remarkable tendency to distribute the most important and responsible trusts at the disposal of the administration among those whose chief qualification for appointment has been the vigor of their opposition to democratic organization.

The senate should not confirm Mr. Peckham, whose appointment was a rebuke to the regular party organization in New York. Since 1878 Mr. Peckham has been a persistent enemy to the success of the organized democracy of his state, and with systematic regularity has bolted democratic nominations and given aid to the effort to republicanize New York. Only a few days ago he refused to vote for the democratic candidate for congress in the special election in his district at a time when the result was in doubt, and when one of two districts, both of which have long been overwhelmingly democratic, elected a republican congressman, while the other showed an appalling democratic loss. Fortunately Mr. Peckham's refusal to vote could not be attributed to his "anti-machine" prejudice. Neither of the democratic nominees belonged to the so-called "machine" wing of the party. Mr. Strauss having been a consistent "anti-snapper," and Mr. Brown, the other democratic nominee, having been the man elected to the New York legislature last year for Mr. Murphy to vote for the senate after his nomination by the democratic caucus. He did not vote because he was not a democrat.

The confirmation of Mr. Peckham's nomination would put a premium on democratic disorganization. We have had enough of promoting men who have been persistent and consistent enemies of the democracy, to highbrow, and we trust that there will be more of it. If the senate does its duty and rejects Mr. Peckham the president should then appoint some good democrat-to-be to the vacancy on the supreme bench.

A Sarcastic Inquiry.

A correspondent of The New York Herald who writes over the signature of "Democrat" makes this inquiry:

What return are those southern and western democrats now making by their income to the democratic party? They always "follow the flag and keep step to the music" of the party organization?

Considering the course of recent events we venture to protest against any such inquiry as the foregoing, which carries sarcasm far toward brutality.

How far have recent developments helped the condition of the people of the south and west? When the Sherman act was brought up for repeal, the democrats and republicans of the east, standing shoulder to shoulder, and forming a controlling element in congress, insisted that the repeal should be unconditional. In other words they set their faces firmly against any substitute legislation based on the pledge of the democratic party that both gold and silver shall be the standard money of the land.

They insisted and carried their point. The Sherman act was repealed, however as a money metal was left without the sustaining force of substitute legislation pledged in the democratic platform. The single gold standard was established, and with it the prostration of business, the decline of property values and the fall of prices. This was the first gift of the united east to the south and west—the gift of highwaymen to their victims.

Then came the Wilson bill. It was to be a tariff for revenue only. From this source the government was to pay all its expenses and have something left over. But the interests of the united came in conflict with this simple tariff programme. Without showing its form in this instance (as it had shown in the financial discussion) the east element brought its powerful influence to bear, and the Wilson bill, instead of coming up to the full measure of the democratic demand, and providing revenue for carrying on the government, actually creates a deficit of $60,000,000. but the south and west have made no protest. They have conceded the gravity of the tariff situation, and they have successfully brought themselves to regard the Wilson bill as a step in the direction of carrying out the democratic platform and meeting the expectations of the people, and to this end they have given their cheerful and united support.

But ex-Congressman Brawley's good luck does not consist in the fact that he has steadily opposed every measure calculated to give the people financial relief, nor in the fact that he aided in striking down silver and establishing the single gold standard. Not at all. It consists in the fact that circumstances have adjusted themselves to his desires as to relieve him of the awkward necessity of appealing to his constituents to endorse his course so far as to give him another term in the house.

Mr. Brawley's luck has raised him above that necessity. He has no need to apply to the people for further employment against their interests. He has been given a federal judgeship, which carries with it a position for life, to go with all the honors and emoluments that belong to the federal bench. If misrepresenting the people of his district and state and supporting the interests of the money sharks of the east constitute a measure of judicial favor, Mr. Brawley will certainly make a wonderfully able judge.

It is a remarkable coincidence that Mr. Brawley, of South Carolina, the only South Carolinian who voted against silver as money metal, and Mr. Herbert, of Alabama, the only Alabamian, who also voted against silver, should have been lifted high on the side of official favor. Mr. Brawley, as we have seen, has been made a federal judge, and Mr. Herbert, as everybody knows, is a member of the cabinet.

It is a remarkable coincidence indeed that these men, opposing the most vital interests of their people, should have been lifted into high offices. If it is anything more than coincidence it seems to us that a few other industrious congressmen are drawing dangerously near the hour of promotion.

The Recent Blizzard.

Our eastern and western exchanges are filled with graphic accounts of the great storm which has raged so furiously over such a large part of the continent during the present week.

How can the railroads restore wages until traffic is restored? How can traffic be restored until business revives? How can business revive while prices are below the cost of production? How can prices rise while gold is increasing in value?

The republicans who still remain in office are very well satisfied with the outlook. But the people who need money are in trouble.

Augusta supports a splendid lyceum. The people of Augusta are literary and they don't mind sending a thousand miles or so to secure a first-class literary entertainment.

The Campaign Deepens.

The way they run in Georgia—It kinder breaks the rule; One feller on his merit, Another on his mule!

Editor McIntosh, of The Albany Evening Herald, is in the middle of one of the most interesting campaigns ever witnessed in Georgia. It is a campaign of hog and hominy, and the whole state is rallying to his standard.

ABOUT THE GOVERNORSHIP.

The Daguerre Record says:

"Hon. W. Y. Atkinson has commenced his 'swinging around the circle' in chasing the nomination for governor. If ever there was a 'wild hunt' for office it is fully illustrated in his case. He has been pursuing the office for years and it still eludes his grasp. His methods are not to be envied."

Says The Dawson News:

"The eagerness with which Mr. Atkinson is seeking the governorship is only surpassed by the eagerness with which the governorship is seeking General Evans. The dandified character and distinguished bearing of General Evans stand forth in clear contrast against the undue haste with which Mr. Atkinson has hurried from one office to another."

The Macon Advertiser:

"The Sparta Ishmaelite is in favor of Hon. Boykin Wright for congress. Mr. Wright is one of the ablest men in the state and would make a most admirable representative in congress."

The Dawson News says:

"Hon. L. F. Garrard, of Columbus, formally tendered his services to the United States senate in Sunday's papers. The news believes that the real contest will be between Senator Colquitt and Major Bacon."

Mr. Senator Colquitt, The Dawson News:

"The matinees were well received at the grand theater on Saturday evening. 'La Gioconda' was well received. At night the same play which Charlotte Cushman did under the name of 'The Actress of Padua.' The play, tragic and while not particularly cheerful, is strong and well suited to excellent advantage. Mr. Hart made a decided hit in the role of the hunchback."

McCarthy's Mishaps" Tonight.

Barney Ferguson in his merry comedy,

"McCarthy's Mishaps," will be the bill tonight at the Grand and tomorrow at matinees and at night. New Orleans was highly pleased at the performance, judging from the criticism of The Times. Despite the absurdities and paeans specialties, attempted to the St. Charles theater, the large crowd enjoyed the performances this season. Every seat was filled, and many were standing on each door. In the gallery there was a perfect jam, and during the progress of the entertainment the applause from that portion of the house almost shook the building. The play, which is in New Orleans, is always new and welcome. It is simply a farce-comedy of the most extravagant kind, interspersed in which there are many pleasing specialties and some of the most graceful and elegant rendered ludicrous by their very extravagance. The entertainment is better than you can imagine, and if Barney Ferguson, the principal actor, having surrounded himself with people who work earnestly to make the audience enjoy the show, and some of the dialogue and fun-making are very clever. There are several new and interesting specialties in the show this year, as well as some refreshingly new ones.

Coming.

Next week the Pearl McVille company will put in a week at the Marquette street theater at popular prices.

"A Day at the Grand" is the latest attraction bill for the Grand. Jack Dempsey, the prize fighter, being in the cast.

Definitions That Define.

From the St. Louis Republic.

It is said that a young man serving a term in the Massachusetts penitentiary for forgery, having served some thousand dollars by labor outside of what is required of him as a part of his prison duties; that every cent of this money has been turned over to those who lost by his crime, and that when he was offered a pardon he refused it, saying he had committed a crime for which he wished to make full reparation, not only to those who suffered by it, but to the state.

The case is very unusual one, as the convict is a highly educated man, who is able to earn money by doing translating and other work for the penitentiary.

Judge J. L. Sweet's friends all over the eleventh district are speaking of him as a probable candidate for congress in case Mr. Turner is not in the race.

Hon. F. B. Simons, of Clinch, is spoken of as a candidate for the legislature from that county.

Spalding county is to furnish the next senator from the twenty-sixth district, and Colonel Walter Beeks is prominently mentioned as the man.

Georgia and the Boys in Blue.

From The Minneapolis Tribune.

That was a graceful act on the part of the city council of Atlanta, Ga., in sending an invitation to the Grand Army of the Republic to make Atlanta the place of its annual grand encampment of 1855. It should be and doubtless will be, received by the Grand Army of the Republic in the same fraternal spirit with which it was tendered.

It will be exactly thirty years next May when the Second Minnesota entered upon the Atlanta campagna by routing the men of Tunnel Hill eighty miles to the north, followed by the camps of Dalton, the 12th and Resaca on the 13th. It will be thirty years on the 23d of next June when the Second Minnesota was ordered to front to enter upon a continuous siege and succession of maneuvers and assaults, which was to be the grand review.

A Youths' Iconoclast.

One—I don't think George Washington was so twit smart.

Father, what do you mean?

Son—I'll bet 10 cents he couldn't ride a bicycle.

It is thought by his friends that Hon. Leon Wilson will be a candidate for the seat from the fifth senatorial district.

Under a just and reasonable prison system there will be encouraged to do what this man has done. All the coercion which convicts are subjected to will be directed to the removal of recidivism.

They will not be compelled to work to make restitution to those they have wronged for that which they have done.

Consequently they will be treated as capable of earning more than the expense of their own support, and under a just and reasonable system.

Under the existing system the convict ceases to be a man, sees the prison dress is on him. He becomes a mere chattel, a civilly dead, and in the view of the law he has none of the moral responsibility which attaches to a person who is civilly alive.

Under a just and reasonable prison system insisted on retaining a sense of obligation in spite of having been condemned to a life of servitude.

BASEBALLISTS.

They Held an Interesting and Important Meeting Yesterday.

MACON ADMITTED TO MEMBERSHIP

In Place of Augusta--The Montgomery Delegates Complain.

THE SCHEDULE FOR THE SEASON

And Other Matters Acted Upon--Board of Directors Elected--A Constitution and By-Laws Adopted--Meeting Notes.

The Southern Association had an important meeting in Atlanta yesterday.

It began by formally admitting Macon to membership and concluded by adopting a schedule which, it is believed, meets the approval of all the clubs in the association.

The delegates were in session all day, President Nicklin being in the chair. A good deal of the business transacted was private, but a good deal was public as well.

All of the cities of the association were represented. Mr. Henry Powers was here from New Orleans, Manager Jake Wells from Mobile, Manager George Stallings from Nashville, Mr. T. W. Passalaigue from Charleston, and Manager McCloskey from Savannah. Atlanta was represented by T. P. Sullivan and R. C. Bosche, and Memphis was represented by proxy, held by J. K. Ohi.

Macon Admitted.

It had been decided that Macon be admitted into membership in the place of Augusta, the sentiment of the association having been taken by a mail vote. Mr. R. W. Sperry, Mr. Hill and Hon. Minter Wimberly were on hand to represent Macon. Not knowing that Macon had been decided upon, but believing they stood on a par with Macon, with equal chances for securing the admission, Montgomery sent Lieutenant Erwin and Mr. Harry Holt to present the claims of that city for membership.

Macon, however, accepted the proposition which the association had made, and there was nothing else to do but elect that city to membership. The Montgomery gentlemen felt that they had not been treated rightly in not being informed of the exact status of the situation and, therefore, knowing that there was no chance, refused to make any move like that.

They were, however, present for a while during the day and were, of course, accorded all the courtesies of the meeting.

The adoption of the report of the committee on constitution was quite a lengthy document, though condensed as such documents can be. The principal features simply carry out the features of the old southern league and of the new association as outlined at its last meeting.

The salary limit is fixed at $1,000, a sinking fund is provided for and a guaranteed fund of $250 for each club is to be put up the 1st of March. The association is to become a member of the national agreement, Class B, as the old league was.

Board of Directors.

The new feature is the election of a board of directors of which the president is chairman, and which acts also as a board of arbitration. This consists of two members representing the eastern clubs and two members for the western clubs. The association yesterday elected Mr. Armor of Memphis, and Mr. Stallings of Nashville, to represent the western clubs, and Mr. Wimberly of Charleston and Mr. Ohi of Atlanta, to represent the eastern clubs.

As was decided at the first meeting, the visiting team is given a 50 per cent division of the gate receipts, with a guarantee that it shall equal $90 a game.

It is provided that all passes should be issued except to the press.

The contract period was fixed at the same of the season--that is, no contract is to be dated prior to the opening and none is to extend beyond the close of the Southern Association season. The season is to open April 16th and close September 8th.

NOTABLE ADDITIONS.

There was quite a contest on the question of balls for the ensuing year. A proposal was received from the H. H. Kite Company, of New York, offering their balls, which are said to be of superior quality, at a very much lower figure than the St. Louis balls. Two or three of the clubs there was considerable complaint last year about the quality of the Spalding balls, and the new ball had a good many advocates. It was finally decided that a practical test should be made and a committee of three was appointed to make this test and determine upon what ball should be used. Messrs. Powers, Stallings and Ohi constitute that committee.

The Outlook Favorable.

From the indications the baseball men predict a most favorable season. All of them talk enthusiastically over the outlook. They believe the teams this year will be more closely matched than ever before, and as they are determined to live up to the salary limits, they believe each city will make money. If this Southern Association can't none can for the eight best cities of the south are represented.

"AT THE MARKET."

That is the Way Sugar Was Dumped

Yesterday in New York

AND THE COMMON STOCK LOST 31-8.

Silver in London Touches 29 1-8d. Which Breaks the Low Record—Wheat Also Breaks the Low Record.

NEW YORK, February 15.—On transactions of 16,200 shares, the market in sugar broke from 81 1/2 to 77 1/2. The decline was brought about by liquidations caused by reports from Washington that the senate subcommittee will recommend the adoption of the sugar schedule as passed by the house, and that the Senate will, in a severe disappointment to the pool record, refuse to put up the stock. A perfect record was set, and it was not a question of price either, the bulk of the orders having been at the street expression goes, "at the market." Washington, it is said, sold heavily and if the market had not believed the speculators at the capital, have not contributed their mite to local manipulators. The common stock scored a net loss of 3 1/2 and the preferred 2 1/2. While the bulk in sugar were paying for their experience the shorts in Chicago Gas were by no means overlooked. The fact that the Chicago Gas market did not follow the Watson ordinance was common property in certain circles some time before the aldermen took final action. The result was a short interest of formidable proportions for these times. When Mayor Hopkins voted the measure last night the short interest was still covered, but when, still May wheat broke to 58 1/2, on Chicago, when a general decline took place, St. Paul sold down 1 and Burlington and Quincy 1 1/2. Incidentally the rise in foreign exchange and the further drop in silver hurt the stock market, which closed about 200. Net losses were equal to 4 1/2%, the latter in Standard Oil, Louisville and Northwestern, Linseed Oil and Chicago Gas, however, made gains of 3 1/2% per cent.

Railway and miscellaneous bonds were strong.

Sales of listed stocks aggregated 78,000 shares, total value $150,000.

Treasury balances: Coin, $94,450,000; currency, $43,302,000.

Money on call easy 1 per cent; last loan 1; closing offered at 1 per cent; prime mercantile paper 4 1/2% per cent.

Bar silver 63 1/2; Mexican dollars 51 1/2.

Spotting in bankers' bills at 485 1/4% for sixty days and 487 1/4% for 90 days; demand: posted rates 480 1/4% for 60; commercial bills 481 1/4% for 60 days and 482 1/4% for 90 days; for demand.

Government bonds firm.

State bonds dull.

Bonds of all kinds steady.

Silver at the board neglected.

HE'S A PRODIGY.

A Twelve-Year-Old Coon Gets Shot, but Keeps His Own Counsel
AND DISCOVERS THE GUILTY PERSON.

A Remarkable Piece of Detective Work
Judge Andy Calhoun Amazed—A Riot
That the Police Didn't Hear About.

An amateur detective of Napoleonic ability discovered himself to the city police yesterday afternoon. So pleased was he with the youngster's overmastering shrewdness in uncovering crime, Recorder Calhoun is seriously considering the advisability of taking him in charge and turning him over to the "pink-skins."

The young detective was developed under difficulties. Although wounded and almost unto death he killed himself from crippled and maimed against the very greatest odds, and brought his assailant to bay, fastened the evidence against him, and, at the imminent risk of his life, appeared at police headquarters yesterday afternoon to prosecute the case against the man who had so badly wounded him. Detective Calhoun was not needed by him at all; he worked the matter independently of all officers, and only when it was necessary to have an officer did he call for one to attend to the formality of arresting the bad man.

The young detective was developed under difficulties. Although wounded and almost unto death he killed himself from crippled and maimed against the very greatest odds, and brought his assailant to bay, fastened the evidence against him, and, at the imminent risk of his life, appeared at police headquarters yesterday afternoon to prosecute the case against the man who had so badly wounded him. Detective Calhoun was not needed by him at all; he worked the matter independently of all officers, and only when it was necessary to have an officer did he call for one to attend to the formality of arresting the bad man.

Yesterday morning the youngster, called upon by Patrolman White to identify Emmett Oliver, a young negro with a bad reputation, for shooting him. The officers were astounded at the story the youth told, but complied with his request. They appeared in police court yesterday afternoon, and pointed out a small youth of ebony hue, who was immediately the prosecutor.

"I'm the one he shot," said the youngster in a faint, weak voice, his eyes flashing with spirit. "My name's Will Tate. He shot me."

Tate instantly established the impression upon the court that he was a man of character and a man of action. Although but twice 18, he shaved the court in about two minutes' time, then left.

His story when boiled down, showed that he was innocently walking along Rhodes street last Monday night. Suddenly he came upon two contending bodies of young negro men. The younger negroes were making noise and shouting and evidently participated in a clash. The air was filled with rocks, bricks and glass bottles. The fight was nothing short of a young riot, and suddenly some one began shooting. A half dozen shots were exchanged when innocent Will Tate, the spectator, felt a stinging sensation on his side, and knew that he had been shot. He ran home and a physician was sent for.

It was the next morning that Tate, although half dead, showed what a hero and genuine he is. He got out of bed and went out to do some detective work on his own hook. He worked all day and gained several important clues. He came into town yesterday morning when he committed the case by discovering that Emmett Oliver was the negro that shot him. He then asked Officer White to arrest him.

Tate did not stop here. Not content with the mere discovery of the perpetrator of the deed, he served subpoenas, and with his own hand turned the tables over to the negroes engaged in the affair.

"I'm an 'em all," he said proudly yesterday afternoon to the judge, "but some of 'em throw 'em down and said day wudden come."

The recorder at once perceived that it was a serious case and postponed the hearing of it until this afternoon. Oliver was locked up.

"It's the funniest case I ever heard of," said the judge yesterday afternoon. "That little negro did it all, and he seems to have done it remarkably well. And all the time he was suffering from a bad wound."

Yellow Faces Are Not Pretty,
Still less so are the symptoms of the complaint that makes faces yellow—yellow fever, is indicated by a severe pain in the right side and through the right shoulder blade, by nausea, vertigo, sick headache, and by a desire to vomit. The doctor's Stomach Bitters removes it completely, as well as constipation and dyspepsia. Its associates. Prevent malaria, rheumatism and kidney complaint with this sterling remedy.
